PARLIAMENT DISSOLVED TO-DAY

KING SAYS RESPONSIBLE GOVERNMENT IS ISSUE

LEADER OF LIBERALS STATES CANADIAN PEOPLE TO DECIDE IF PARLIAMENT IS SUPREME

Mackenzie King Says Issue of General Election Is full Self-Government; Points Out Governor-General
Granted Dissolution of Parliament to Government Which Commons Declared Did Not Exist

Ottawa, July 2.—"The issue which above all others is now before the people is whether or not government in Canada is to be carried on in accordance with the expressed will of the people's representatives in Parliament under a system of self-government."

These are the concluding words of a statement issued to the citizens of the country this afternoon by Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Leader of the Liberal Party, following the granting of dissolution of the Fifteenth Parliament of Canada by Baron Byng, Governor-General, on the request of Premier Meighen.

Mr. King points out the order of dissolution was granted to a Ministry which by resolution the House of Commons had decided never to have had the right to exist.

The statement runs as follows:
"On Monday of this week I made the following statement in the House of Commons:

"The public interest demands a dissolution of this House of Commons. As Prime Minister I so advised His Excellency the Governor-General after noon to-day. His Excellency having declined to accept my advice to grant a dissolution, to which I believe, under British practice, was entitled, I immediately tendered my resignation, which His Excellency has been graciously pleased to accept."

FORMATION OF CABINET

"On Tuesday also the House of Commons was informed that the then leader of the Opposition, Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, had on the previous evening advised His Excellency he would undertake the task of forming a new administration and that he had been sworn in that morning as Prime Minister, Secretary of State for External Affairs and President of the Privy Council. The statement, which it was announced had been prepared by Mr. Meighen as Prime Minister, concluded as follows:

"The Prime Minister accordingly decided to constitute and submit to His Excellency a temporary ministry composed of seven members, who would be sworn in without portfolios and who would assume responsibility as Acting Ministers of the several departments."

"On Wednesday the members of the temporary Ministry in the House of Commons proceeded to have the House vote supply. On being questioned as to their authority to do so, they admitted that not one of their number had been sworn in as Minister of the Crown."

RESOLUTION ADOPTED

"On Thursday, after careful consideration by the House of Commons then assembled of the unconstitutionality of the whole proceedings, the following resolution was adopted by the House of Commons:

"That the actions in this House of the honorable members who have acted as Ministers of the Crown since the 27th of June, 1926, namely, the honorable members for West York, Fort William, Vancouver Centre, Argenteuil and Wellington South and the honorable senior member of Halifax are a violation and an infringement of the privileges of this House for the following reasons:

"(1) That the said honorable gentlemen have no right to sit in this House and should have vacated their seats therein if they legally held office as administrators of the various departments assigned to them by Order-in-Council.

"(2) That if they do not hold such office legally, they have no right to control the business of government in this House and to ask for supply for the departments of which they state they are Acting Ministers."

"The adoption of this resolution by the House of Commons defeated the Meighen administration."

"This morning a dissolution had been obtained by the defeated ministry, a ministry which by resolution the Commons had decided never to have had the right to exist. On Monday a dissolution was denied to a ministry which had not yet been defeated in Parliament in a vote of over four and one-half years."

THE CHIEF ISSUE

In these circumstances the issue above all others is now before the people is whether or not government in Canada is to be carried on in accordance with the expressed will of the people's representatives in Parliament under a system of responsible self-government."

CITY'S POPULATION NOW 64,605 WRIGLEY EXPERTS CALCULATE

Greater Victoria's population has reached 64,605 this year, as compared with 62,440 last year, an increase of 2,165, according to figures collected by Wrigley Directories Limited during the last few months. These figures include the city, Oak Bay, Saanich and Esquimalt, and are estimated according to the standards used by the Association of North American Publishers. Greater Vancouver's population is estimated at 278,752 as against 254,000 in 1925, a gain of 24,752. The new Wrigley Directory, containing these figures, will be ready for distribution in about three weeks.

HON. J. A. ROBB
HON. W. R. MOTHERWELL (Right)

Defeat of the Conservative "shadow Government" in the House of Commons came at 1:55 a.m. to-day on a motion moved by Hon. J. A. Robb, former Minister of Finance, and seconded by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former Minister of Agriculture.

Held Unique Position

Hon. Rodolphe Lemieux, who as Speaker elected from the Liberal Party presided in the House of Commons for three days while the Conservative "Shadow Government" occupied the Treasury benches. During that period he was called on to make several rulings on contentious questions which had arisen between the parties. It is stated his position was without parallel in the parliamentary history of Canada.

People in Bulgaria and Yugoslavia Suffer as Result of Torrential Rains

London, July 2.—Great damage has been done in Bulgaria and Yugoslavia as a result of floods which followed torrential rains of three days.

The low-lying quarters in Sofia are under water, and firemen and troops are using boats in rescuing the inhabitants.

In Yugoslavia thousands of acres of farm lands have been inundated and dwellings, furniture and cattle have been swept away. Many villages are wholly submerged.

CALLS INDIES PACT BIG STEP TOWARDS EMPIRE FREE TRADE

Sun Life President Foresees Day When British Nations Will Remove Barriers

A far-reaching system of trade preferences, amounting almost to free trade within the British Empire, was urged by T. B. Macaulay, president of the Sun Life Insurance Company and leading Canadian authority on trade with the East Indies, in a speech before the Canadian Club at noon to-day.

Canada's new trade treaty with the East Indies, Mr. Macaulay declared, was the first step, and a long step, in the direction of Empire preference. "I should like to see every part of the Empire with a tariff generally, but with a big preference between the northern parts, producing much the same goods, and absolute free trade between the southern parts and the tropical parts, whose products are different," he said. The East Indies, he pointed out, are small in comparison with the other tropical parts of the Empire which the northern parts of the Empire could trade under a preferential tariff agreement.

Development of free and preferential trade between the nations of the Empire, he said, would mean much to the Empire as a whole and to the world, whose affairs were largely dictated by the British peoples. The tropical nations, producing goods for the northern and southern British possessions, he described as the cement which would bind the Empire together.

STRONGLY BRITISH
Mr. Macaulay recalled his visit to those islands years ago when they were poor and struggling because they adhered to the British connection.

LAKE ERIE AFFAIR IS INVESTIGATED

Canadian Boat Captured U.S. Coastguardsman; Americans Make Rum Charge

Buffalo, N.Y., July 2.—Details of a sensational conflict on Monday night between four members of the crew of the United States coastguard cutter CG-2205 and Amos Vanderveer and G. Marr, manning an alleged Canadian rum runner out of Port Colborne, Ontario, during the course of which a dozen shots were fired, a coastguardsman captured and both boats beached near Point Abino, Ontario, have just become known.

The clash occurred in Canadian waters, it is alleged, and the international issue raised by the incident has been referred to the federal authorities at Washington and Ottawa. The liquor cargo now is at the bottom of Lake Erie.

LEAPED ON BOARD

It was only when the Canadians sped away with the kidnapped coastguardsman that the firing began. In trying to escape capture the Canadian craft rammed the United States boat and one of the crew of the latter leaped on board the rum runner, being immediately overpowered. The United States officers maintain the rum runner was boarded in United States waters, while the Canadians declare the clash occurred within a mile or so of the Canadian shore.

MEIGHEN IS TO ANNOUNCE DATE OF ELECTION AFTER HE COMPLETES HIS CABINET

Fiftieth Parliament of Canada Brought to End After New Conservative "Shadow Government" in Office Only Three Days; Ministry Defeated in House of Commons by 96 to 95 Votes; Tolmie Mentioned as Cabinet Possibility

Ottawa, July 2.—Parliament was dissolved to-day. It is calculated here that, allowing the forty-five days called for as a minimum by statute to intervene, the first day on which the general election could be held would be August 17.

Premier Meighen, who announced this afternoon that Baron Byng, Governor-General, had granted his request for dissolution of the Fifteenth Parliament of Canada, said he would complete organization of his Cabinet, until now only a "Shadow Government" composed of Acting Ministers. He stated that immediately after organization had been completed the date of the polling would be announced.

Premier Meighen's request for dissolution followed the defeat of his Ministry by ninety-six votes to ninety-five in the House of Commons at 1:55 o'clock this morning. The Meighen "Shadow Cabinet" had been in office less than three days when the adverse vote came.

MEIGHEN SAYS BYNG ACTED CORRECTLY

Premier Thinks Governor-General Rightly Refused King Dissolution of Parliament

Ottawa, July 2.—Declaring that "the attack promulgated by or under the direction of the late Prime Minister ought not to pass unnoticed," Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Prime Minister, issued early this morning a statement defending the action of Governor-General Byng in refusing dissolution to Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, now Opposition Leader.

Mr. Meighen states that when a prime minister, having asked and obtained dissolution but failing to obtain a majority, continues in office, he is not entitled to demand a second dissolution merely because he is unable to command a majority in the House of Commons.

"More emphatically it is true that in the case of a minister who, if not indeed in any case whatsoever, a government is not entitled to dissolution while a motion of censure against that Government is under discussion in the House," he proceeds. "A dissolution very manifestly should not be granted when its effect is to avoid a vote of censure. This was precisely the case in the present instance."

SUPPLY NOT VOTED
Mr. Meighen states Mr. King advised dissolution in the midst of a session and before necessary provision had been made for the public service in order to avoid a vote of censure.

"His advice was properly and constitutionally declined by His Excellency. If it had been granted, Mr. King again appealing to the people and finding himself once more in a minority, could with equal reason apply at the next session for a third dissolution, and so on indefinitely," the statement declares.

LIBERAL M.P.'S MEET IN CAUCUS

Ottawa, July 2.—Within an hour of the announcement of dissolution members of the Liberal Party were meeting in caucus. The gathering included members of the late Parliament, former members and party advisers. Gossip and speculation on the election ran high. Election rumors of possible majorities, defeats and victories were excitedly discussed almost as though the general election was a few days away.

As the members of the late Liberal Government appeared in the crowd outside the caucus room, they were greeted with applause.

Hon. S. F. Tolmie, member for Victoria, B.C., is mentioned as a possibility for membership in the Cabinet Mr. Meighen will form. Other names heard in discussion here are those of Hon. Robert Rogers, member for Winnipeg South; E. D. Ryekman, Toronto East, and J. D. Chapman, Lincoln, Ontario.

The corridors of Parliament are buzzing with gossip and speculation. There are conferences and discussions proceeding in every corner.

The Senate met this morning to discuss the Campbell amendment to the Grain Act, but adjourned until later in the day.

The dissolution caught members by surprise. Throughout the day there had been rumors of dissolution was imminent, but it was not expected the end would come before the remaining business of the House had been disposed of. As the situation stands, only one-quarter of the supply has been voted and this expired on June 30. However, though Parliament is no longer in session the Governor-General by warrant can authorize the necessary appropriations and this course is expected to be followed.

BILLS LOST

At the same time, considerable legislation goes by the board. This includes some legislation which had passed both Houses but had not been signed. As the Governor-General cannot sign except in the presence of both Houses of Parliament, such legislation can not now go on the statute books. The Rural Credit Bill is such a measure. It has not been signed.

Another measure which has gone by the boards is the Campbell Bill, to empower grain growers to ship their grain to any terminal elevators they choose. There is the bill providing for the revaluation of soldiers' land. There is the resolution of the transfer of Alberta's natural resources. There is the bill to amend the Civil Service Superannuation Act of 1924. There is the bill authorizing advances to settlers on Government lands.

GREAT INTEREST

In expectation of stormy scenes in the House this afternoon, crowds were already gathering in the corridors waiting for the doors to open, unaware that Canada's Fifteenth Parliament had ceased to exist. The staff of the House of Commons was also gathering to prepare for the sitting.

MINISTERS MET

Premier Meighen and his Cabinet of Acting Ministers met this morning in the East Block of the Parliament Buildings. The meeting commenced at 11:30. As the Acting Ministers went into the meeting they declined to make any comment on the situation.

Met in the history of Canada and probably not in that of any other country in the Empire has there been such an extraordinary situation as has existed here in the last few days.

On Monday Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King informed the House he had advised the Governor-General to dissolve Parliament, and that such advice having been refused, he had tendered his resignation.

VOTES TAKEN

Mr. Meighen accepted the invitation to form a government. He thereby vacated his own seat in the House.

MEIGHEN ROUNDING OUT HIS CABINET

In Announcing Election He States He is Adding Members to Ministry

Ottawa, July 2.—Premier Meighen issued the following statement this afternoon:

"On Monday last the Government of the Right Hon. Mackenzie King suddenly resigned in the midst of the debate on a motion of censure for administration of the Customs Department. Thereupon His Excellency invited me to form a new administration. This I accepted, and in order that the work of the session, which was then very near its close, might not be lost, I made temporary arrangements for the ordinary conduct and completion of public business, including passing of necessary supply and the early prorogation of the House."

"During the week the Government formed was sustained on several divisions on matters of vital importance, including a decisive vote of censure against the Mackenzie King Administration."

MINISTRY DEFEATED
"Early this morning, on what was really a question of law and admittedly not a question of policy, the Government was defeated by a majority of one."

"The fact of this defeat, coupled with a consideration of the chaotic condition into which public affairs have been drifting and the too evident instability of Government, necessitated in my opinion, an appeal to the electorate. I accordingly advised the Governor-General to-day to dissolve Parliament, which advice His Excellency has been pleased to accept."

"It is now my duty to complete the organization of the present Cabinet, after which the date of the election will immediately be announced."

COMMONS VOTE WHICH BROUGHT ELECTION ANNOUNCEMENT WAS NINETY-SIX TO NINETY-FIVE

Ottawa, July 2.—Dissolution of Parliament after the Meighen Conservative "Shadow Government" had been in office less than three days was caused by one vote in the House of Commons at an early hour this morning. By ninety-six votes to ninety-five the House supported the Liberal view, expressed in a motion offered by Hon. J. A. Robb, that the actions in the House of the acting Cabinet Ministers were a violation and an infringement of the privileges of the Commons. It declared that the acting Ministers had no right to sit in the House and should have vacated their seats if they held office legally as administrators of the various departments assigned to them. If they did not hold such offices legally they had no right to control the business of government and ask for supply.

BY ONE VOTE

Ottawa, July 2.—By a single vote, and that cast in error, the Meighen Government went down to defeat in the House of Commons shortly after 2 o'clock this morning. The vote, recorded in a small House, was 96 to 95.

Immediately after the result was announced, T. W. Bird, Progressive, Nelson, Manitoba, rose and announced "with extreme regret" that he had voted, although paired with D. M. Kennedy, Progressive, Peace River, Alberta, against the Government.

Speaker Lemieux informed Mr. Bird and the House that, the vote having been recorded and the result announced, he must accept it as final. The chair took no official cognizance of pairs, he stated.

The motion before the House, moved by Hon. J. A. Robb and seconded by Hon. W. R. Motherwell, declared the actions in the House of the Acting Cabinet Ministers were a violation and an infringement of the privileges of the Commons. It declared the Acting Ministers had no right to sit in the House and should have vacated their seats if they held office legally as administrators of the various departments assigned to them. If they did not hold such offices legally they had no right to control the business of government and ask for supply.

GREAT EXCITEMENT

Announcement of the result of the vote, followed closely by Mr. Bird's statement, created pandemonium in the Chamber. In the midst of it, Sir Henry Drayton, acting Government leader in the House, moved adjournment. Time was necessary for consideration of the situation which had developed "as a result of the accident," he stated.

Amid great applause from the Liberal benches, ex-Premier King said that in view of the evening's vote he would assume Premier Meighen would advise the Governor-General that "this Government has no right to exist."

Sir Henry Drayton said a previous vote of censure on the Liberal Opposition had given a majority to the Government of ten. If Mr. Meighen waited upon the Governor-General,

SICK ABED EIGHT MONTHS

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Could Do All Her Work and Gained in Weight

Melfort, Saskatchewan. — "I had inward troubles, headaches and severe pains in my back and sides. I was so sick generally that I could not sit up and I was in bed most of the time for eight months. An aunt came to visit and help me as I was unable to attend to my baby and could not do my work. She told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two bottles I could get up and dress myself. I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. When I first took the medicine I only weighed seventy-eight pounds. Now I weigh twice as much. If I get out of sorts or weary and can't sleep I always take another bottle of the Vegetable Compound. I find it wonderfully good for female troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. I will be only too glad to answer any letters I receive asking about it." — Mrs. WILLIAM RITCHIE, Box 486, Melfort, Saskatchewan.

duce this country from a self-governing Dominion to the status of a crown colony."

He said dissolution had not been refused for 100 years by the King on the advice of his Prime Minister in Great Britain, and not before since Confederation here. He said this was a battle not only for Canada, but all the other self-governing Dominions.

ONLY ONE MEMBER

During this portion of Mr. King's speech there were continuous interruptions and a stream of shouts from the Government benches.

The Prime Minister, said Mr. King, should consider carefully whether he had the right to keep the Governor-General in suspense as to whether or not his act was wholly constitutional. How had the first order-in-council been passed? he asked.

What was the quorum? If Mr. Meighen had gone to the Governor-General with orders-in-council, which he alone was authorized to pass, and asked His Excellency to approve them, Mr. Meighen had committed an act of supreme autocracy.

Mr. King thought a Privy Council would have to have a quorum to make appointments. The only regularly appointed member of that Privy Council apparently was Premier Meighen himself.

MOTION LOST

Mr. King said he wanted to present the case last night so the Governor-General would have an opportunity to consider the situation, and also that the Prime Minister could think over the situation in which he had placed the Governor-General. He moved that the House adjourn in order that this opportunity might be given.

There were cries of protest and then Mr. King moved that the chairman of the committee leave the chair. The motion was lost on division, 101 to 89.

Hon. H. H. Stevens, Acting Minister of Customs, explained that when His Excellency asked Mr. Meighen to form a government the latter was

BIG MEN WEAR OUT FASTER, INSURANCE INVESTIGATORS FIND

Their Vital Organs are no Larger, But Have More Work to do

Heart and Pulse Conditions Lead as Reasons For Refusal of Men as Risks

Defective heart and pulse conditions account for the greatest number of refusals for companies accepting applicants for life insurance, J. B. Mabon, actuarial expert, told the Sun Life convention at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Mr. Mabon said it was found that serious heart and pulse conditions were the reason for refusal of men as risks. He gave the following reasons from statistical tables as to why life insurance was refused applicants last year:

Twenty per cent. were refused because of heart and pulse conditions; fifteen per cent. were refused because of high albumen content, indicating possibility of nephritis and other diseases;

Fourteen per cent. were refused because of habits, including liquor habits;

Ten per cent. because of blood pressure.

As for sub-standard cases in which policies were written, twenty-four per cent. of those who had to be so classified were tubercular, and twelve per cent. of the total death claims were due to tuberculosis. Thirty per cent. of the death claims under the age of forty-four were due to tuberculosis.

Gastric, duodenal, ulcer, appendicitis, and other diseases, pleurisy for five per cent, nineteen per cent. were rated because of overweight.

"Insurance," representatives have much trouble with the cases of men who are overweight," Mr. Mabon went on. "Big men claim that they are husky and strong and can't see that they are perfectly healthy risks. We find that the big-framed man has only so much vital organs, heart, kidneys, and because they have to serve a bigger body they wear out more quickly than such organs in a smaller man. It is found that the impairment of the vital organs of such a man is heavier in proportion to what it is in a normal person."

Mr. Mabon said that life insurance companies were finding the loss on the disability clause incorporated in insurance policies heavier than had been expected and because of this company after company have had to adopt high rates for disability clauses.

Results show that disabilities under such clauses were attributable as follows: Thirty per cent. due to tuberculosis; eleven per cent. due to insanity; seven per cent. to cancer.

issue on a question of privilege. For several hours the discussion proceeded rather tamely. Hon. J. A. Macaulay, Minister of Finance in the King Government, offered a formal motion which was tantamount to a motion of want of confidence against the lines of Mr. King's challenge of the previous day.

As the debate went on it became more apparent that the Meighen Government, if not defeated, would have only the smallest of majorities. Conservatives who had supported the King Government in the previous divisions on the customs report were lining up with the Liberals on the constitutional issue. Expectation of approaching prorogation and the Dominion Day holiday for all except parliamentarians had resulted in an unusually large number of pairs. Five Conservatives were away without pairs, but their presence would probably have left the result unaffected.

One, owing to illness, had been away unpaired for the greater part of the session. Of the other four, two had usually voted Liberal and two usually Conservative.

FOUR VOTES CHANGED

It was the switch of four Alberta Conservatives, Coote, Garland, Spencer and Gardiner, which defeated the Meighen Government. In divisions since the King Government had resigned they had voted with the Conservatives. In to-day's vote on the constitutional issue they voted with the Liberals. As they rose one after another to vote for the Liberal motion, they left the result beyond question.

INQUIRY ORDERED

Ottawa, July 2.—Investigation is being made on behalf of the Canadian Government of the incident of last Monday when a United States coastguard cutter fired on a Canadian boat in Lake Erie.

The Department of Customs has ordered a complete report.

REPORTS VARY

Buffalo, N.Y. July 1.—Four members of the crew of the coastguard cutter C.G.-2205, and two men operating an alleged Canadian rum runner out of Port Colborne, Ontario, engaged in a battle Monday night in which a dozen shots were fired.

One coast guardman was captured and both boats were beached. The clash occurred in Canadian waters, it is alleged.

Reports on the incident, decidedly at variance, were made by Ralph Crowley, superintendent of the United States coastguard in this district, and Clarence Woodward, customs officer at Port Colborne who made investigations for the respective governments.

With Woodward's report to the Deputy Minister of Customs at Ottawa went the stories of G. Marr and Amos Vandervere, the two occupants of the Canadian boat. Crowley sent to Washington the stories told by the crew of the cutter.

Marr and Vandervere charged that the C.G.-2205 fired at them when their craft was only 1½ miles off the Point Abino light, well within Canadian waters.

The crew of the coastguard craft told Captain Daley, their chief, that they came upon the alleged rum boat in United States waters and did not fire on it until the boat started away with one of their number on board.

WOULD NOT STOP

Capt. Daley said repeated calls to the Canadian boat to stop were ignored and that the alleged rum runners finally rammed the coastguard craft.

One of the coastguard men who jumped aboard the Canadian boat, said he was overpowered and the rum boat started away with him. It was only then, the coastguard crew reported, that the first shots were fired.

My men would not have followed the boat into Canadian waters except to rescue their companion," Capt. Daley said.

While the United States boat was near the beach, Captain Daley reported, a machine gun, two rifles, two revolvers and six pairs of hand-guns were stolen. The engine was also damaged. The Canadian officials, he said, refused to leave one of the United States crew on guard.

The statement begins by saying: "While it is highly undesirable that a controversy should arise with regard to the conduct of the Governor-General in respect to a matter upon which his duty compelled him to give a decision according to his best judgment, yet the attacks promulgated by or under the direction of the late Prime Minister ought not to pass unnoticed."

ity report, setting forth that the country can not accept the report of the naval sub-commission had already caused a sensation at the conference.

The decision of the United States was announced at a meeting of the naval experts, who yesterday approved the report of the drafting committee.

The disagreement on naval problems is serious. It has been revealed that the British, Argentine, and Chilean delegations will associate themselves in a common dissenting declaration, and possibly Japan may join in this movement.

MINORITY DEFEATED

Geneva, July 2.—A minority naval report, submitted to the military committee of the preparatory commission on disarmament by Great Britain, the United States, Argentina and Chile, was defeated by fourteen to four. Germany abstained from voting.

The minority report contended that naval strength should be compared by the tonnage of classes of ships, rather than by the total tonnage as voted by the naval sub-committee.

The summary: Farmers 40, Conservatives 4, Liberals 4, Labor 4, Independent Labor 1, Doubtful 7. Total 56.

Farmer members were elected on second counts in Pincher Creek, Macleod, Wetaskiwin and Leduc.

Farmer members were leading in Innisfail, Bow Valley, Stony Plains and Victoria.

Liberals were leading in Athabasca and St. Albert.

A Labor candidate was leading in Edson.

Con. Had they joined the United States they would have reaped immediate prosperity, but this they had refused to do. They preferred, he said, to be British and poor.

Mr. Macaulay said he had started to give some thought to this problem in the hope of aiding the West Indies and Canada at the same time. In tackling this question, he said, it had been necessary to realize that Canada's greatest need was markets, and the West Indies could become a big consumer of Canadian goods.

The West Indies, he explained, needed markets also, but for goods not produced here. Thus an ideal trading combination could be created.

OPPOSES UNION

While his first thoughts had been along the lines of political union, Mr. Macaulay said, he had come to the conclusion that this was undesirable. On the other hand, he felt that a complete freedom of trade between Canada and the West Indies would be of the greatest value. To support this idea, he referred to the enormous growth of Porto Rico's trade simply as a result of trade union with the United States.

In endeavoring to develop a connection of this sort between Canada and the West Indies, Mr. Macaulay stated, serious difficulties had been encountered. In the first place, it was necessary to persuade the West Indies peoples that Canada could supply their needs, and, secondly, to break them away from their former New York financial connections.

Thus it had been necessary to accomplish the desired results by gradual steps in the form of trade arrangements covering specific articles.

"The result of this is that there is a total change in the attitude of these people towards Canada," he said, referring to a recently trip to the West Indies. "They look now upon Canadians as their friends and realize that their commercial future is bound up with the West Indies."

Everywhere on the islands you see Canadian goods—flour, potatoes, canned fruits, fish, lumber, paper, fertilizers, automobiles and many other articles. In return, under our agreement, we import bananas, cocoa, fruits and other articles which we cannot produce ourselves. And there are many other articles which we should get from them."

PROVIDES PREFERENCE

Canada's new agreement with the West Indies, he explained, provides for a fifty per cent preference and practically all West Indies goods—a concession which the West Indies, in return, give to Canadian goods. This, he believed, would open up large new markets for Canadian flour and other goods in the West Indies.

The new treaty, he explained, also provides for an adequate steamship service between Canada and the West Indies to carry on the newly-developed trade.

"I confess I don't know whether the agreement has gone through or not," Mr. Macaulay said. "I understand it has been ratified by the Commons and is now before the Senate. I certainly hope it will go through. The condition is very desirable at the moment owing to the present inadequate steamship services, but we are hoping this will all be straightened out. If this goes through I predict there will be another treaty within a few years by which these people will be practically part of Canada commercially, though not politically, and Canadians will be able to go down there and develop that valuable tropical country."

WILL AID WEST

The new agreement, he said, would benefit Western Canada as it would the East. Soon steamers would be carrying British Columbia lumber and other products to the West Indies and bringing back sugar, bananas and other tropical goods, he said.

Mr. Macaulay looked forward to the day when Canada would make a similar agreement with British possessions like Fiji and other places in the tropics.

Henry Hall, K.C., president of the Canadian Club, introducing Mr. Macaulay, explained that he was one of the men chiefly responsible for the newly-developed trade between Canada and the West Indies, and had worked unceasingly for years to negotiate the new trade agreement.

The annual general meeting of the Veterans of France was held in the club rooms on Wednesday evening June 30, when much discussion arose as to the advisability of becoming affiliated with the British Empire Service League.

To give members an opportunity of studying the pros and cons of this procedure, a definite decision has been postponed until a general meeting is held in the near future. Officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: President, Com. F. A. Abrams; first vice-president, Com. R. Sharp; second vice-president, Com. R. Good; sergeant-at-arms, Com. J. McKenzie; treasurer, Com. A. Murdoch; chairman of ways and means, Com. J. King; chairman of investigations, Com. W. Bradley; chairman of sick committee, Com. A. Rogers; chairman of sports committee, Com. J. Taylor; chairman of finance, Com. J. W. Turner. Several new comrades were admitted to membership of the organization.

DISSOLUTION

DISSOLUTION OF PARLIAMENT TOday is the climax of a situation without parallel in the political records of this Dominion. The outcome will be a general election which necessarily must be held soon and which will follow a campaign that promises to be one of the sharpest ever conducted in this country.

During the last week the House of Commons has been in a state of veritable topsy-turvydom. The Government benches have been occupied by both of the major parties, each of whom in turn has been overthrown by the political broncho-busting Progressives, whose passion for making and unmaking administrations appears to have been uncontrollable. The vote in the House last night confronted the Governor-General with the unique alternative of refusing to grant Mr. Meighen a dissolution or to accept the resignation of the infant Meighen Ministry and again call upon Mr. King to form a Government. He has granted Mr. Meighen, who was defeated on a straight want-of-confidence motion, what he declined to grant Mr. King, who had not been defeated in that sense.

This constitutional issue is bound to become one of the outstanding features of the campaign about to be fought, particularly in Eastern Canada and the Prairie Provinces, where it is likely to monopolize the entire political stage. If it is true that dissolution has not been refused a Government in Great Britain since 1832, as Mr. King has declared, the Governor-General unfortunately cannot help becoming involved through his conflict with established precedent, no matter how good his intention. This condition could not have arisen if Mr. King had been able to obtain a dissolution of Parliament. It would not have been challenged by the Conservatives, who wanted an election, and, of course, it had the approval of the Liberals. In that case the election campaign would have been conducted on the conventional lines without any reference to the action of Baron Byng.

It is unfortunate that some arrangement regarding supply was not made before dissolution. Of course governmental services can be carried on with Governor-General's warrants, but these usually are restricted to pure routine activities, and it is desirable therefore that the election be held and Parliament convened as quickly as possible.

In some quarters there is an impression that an election will clear the political atmosphere in the sense that it will result in one party or the other securing a definite majority over all of the other elements in the House. Unhappily present prospects do not support that expectation. Both Liberals and Conservatives have certain strongholds which assure them formidable numbers, and the former are likely to gain more in Ontario and the Prairie Provinces than the latter are likely to gain in Quebec. We seem to be faced with unsettled political conditions for some time.

MR. F. W. PETERS

THE GOOD WISHES OF ALL WHO know him will be extended to Mr. F. W. Peters as he leaves active service with the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to enjoy what is euphemistically described as retirement. For nearly half a century Mr. Peters has been associated with the great transportation concern and for many years he held the post he is now relinquishing—that of General Superintendent for the British Columbia division of the system. Even now, however, he is not to sever the tie completely, for he will still be available to the company in an advisory capacity.

Not alone as a railway executive did Mr. Peters gain the high place which he holds in the esteem of the people of this Province. He is a many-sided man—a raconteur of rare charm, an entertaining after-dinner speaker, a writer of originality, and the possessor of an outstanding personality. The Times wishes him health and good fortune in the days of leisure upon which he is now entering.

INTERESTED IN VICTORIA

IN DECIDING TO ADVANCE THE SELL-ing price of reverted lots by twenty-five per cent. the City Council has taken the proper course. Many of these pieces of property have been listed for some time past at figures considerably lower than is being asked for similar lots in other communities much smaller and of less importance than Victoria. The Council's move in itself, moreover, should be an excellent advertisement and add to the interest which already is being manifested in local real estate.

Reports from Los Angeles, incidentally, as well as from other centres in California, indicate that many people down there are making exhaustive inquiries about Victoria and Vancouver Island in general with the object of buying property and eventually of taking up residence here. By personal visits and information which they have obtained from this community's advertising material they have begun to realize what this part of Canada has to offer them in the way of opportunities for investment and other attractions. Many of these people obviously are not interested in this community as a playground, but as a place which offers business prospects. These are the sort of residents we require in large numbers. Various kinds of local development could be undertaken with profit to the investor and of inestimable value from the point of view of general progress.

The point that Victorians should bear in mind is that a community either goes forward or backwards. There is no such thing as a community standing still. We believe this city will go ahead. Most signs point that way. But the surest way of bringing about the desirable amount of progress while outside interest is being shown in what we have to offer is to do a little developing on our own account. Two or three local projects have been completed during the last few years; but it took a long time to put them through and there was much head shaking and apprehension while they took shape. They now, however, form part of the attractions, commercial as well as recreational, in which people who are looking to Victoria and Vancouver Island to furnish them with opportunities for investment are interested.

Every day we learn of more Californians purchasing local real estate. Every one of these who comes to live here will do his share to advertise the city. But the more we do ourselves, the more enthusiastic the newcomer will be, and the speedier will be the growth to which every Victorian is looking forward. Certain it is, this community should no longer be regarded as an interesting old ruin, a place in which to retire, or a playground available all the year round. A community only progresses by its business.

MR. MEIGHEN'S BIG JOB

IT WILL BE INTERESTING TO WATCH Mr. Meighen commence the job of constructing an election platform. Everybody remembers what he said prior to the contest last October. Nothing but a Conservative Government headed by himself could save the country from economic disaster. His was not the government which took office after October 29 and the country has been going ahead by leaps and bounds ever since.

That was bad enough for the Conservative leader; but what must he think as he recalls how Hansard has him on record as opposed to the budget and the relief which it has afforded the Canadian taxpayer. He was bitterly antagonistic to the Canadian-Australian trade treaty which already has produced more business for Canada as a whole and particularly for British Columbia. He was similarly annoyed over the arrangement between this Dominion and the British West Indies which the president of the Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada tells us authoritatively is good business for this country. He is likewise opposed to the British preference which has been mainly responsible for our sales to Great Britain increasing from $370,000,000 to $508,000,000 in the last few years. He is also in favor of restoring the tariff which will increase the cost of small automobiles and many other things which Canada imports each year.

If Mr. Meighen is consistent, if he meant what he said in the House of Commons, he must put these planks in his platform. And how is he going to reconcile his war-time policy with an appeal for the votes of those United Empire Loyalists in Ontario who have very different views on this subject?

WHAT OTHER PAPERS SAY

GOVERNMENT BY THE PEOPLE

From The Washington Post
It is always a difficult thing to get the American voter sufficiently interested in an election to take the trouble to go to the polls on election day. In the primary elections still greater difficulty is encountered, and it is only through the most strenuous efforts of party managers and candidates themselves that they can be dragged to the polls. In a recent village primary in New York, with a voting population of some 500, there were only five votes cast, and three of them were by the election officers themselves.

"MR. AND MRS." AND BRIGGS

From The Ottawa Citizen
For several years now readers of The Saturday Evening Citizen have been amused and entertained by the domestic adventures of "Mr. and Mrs.," better known perhaps as Violet and Joe, and their boy Roscoe, the cat who has been the reddest and most observant of all comic page artists, Clara Briggs. Their popularity shows no sign of declining. On a hundred faces on street cars and at street corners on Saturday afternoons in Ottawa are to be seen knowing smiles as their wearers peruse the weekly episode in the Joe and Violet household. Last Saturday Joe brought home a cat for Roscoe. As he approached the front door he grinned contentedly as he pictured the joy which the new pet would bring to the boy.

Alas, for Joe's complacent hopes. The basket is opened. Instead of glee, Roscoe expresses juvenile disgust. Boylike, he wants a dog, not a cat. Cats are for old maids. And the cat, Joe thought, "I begin to like him and I begin to like him as it rushes into the next room. 'What's the idea of bringing that nasty cat in this house?' asked Mrs. Joe in horror and surprise. 'It's a perfectly good cat,' replies Joe lamely. But the cat, still overwrought, has to go and Joe with a walking stick chases it out, as Roscoe keeps up his obligation on the theme of "I want a dog." And into the night the argument continues. Joe, poor fellow, trying to justify his intended little act of kindness, Violet telling him he ought to have more sense.

Briggs, more than any other cartoonist, comes nearer to the goal of all comic artists of being funny without being vulgar. He is, as stated, a shrewd observer of life and a keen student of human nature. "The fellow Briggs certainly knows married life," is a frequent comment of Saturday Evening Citizen readers. He does, and extracts from it much good humor and genuine fun. Most of all, he has a sympathetic understanding of both sides of the family differences which make life what it is in the average household on this continent.

Do You Mean What You Say?

"NO QUARTER"

When the cry of "No quarter" arises on a battlefield, it is commonly understood that no enemy lives are to be spared by the victors. The expression originated in ancient European warfare, when a soldier would refrain from dealing a death blow to an enemy on condition that he would receive a quarter of the latter's pay.

THE GRANGE
Q.—What and where is the Grange?
A.—The Grange is one of the famous buildings in Toronto and one of its oldest, having been built in the early part of the 19th century as the home of the well-known Boulton family. In later years, it became the home of Goldwin Smith, and on the death of Professor Smith and his wife it was given to the city together with the beautiful grounds surrounding it. It is now a part of the Toronto Art Gallery and is being preserved as a specimen of Elizabethan architecture.

confronted with two alternatives. He could ask for an adjournment of Parliament while he organized a ministry or endeavor to carry on the present sitting. He realized it was in the dying hours of the session, and considered it was in the best interests of the country that a ministry be formed, admittedly temporary, which would conclude the work of this session, and then the new Prime Minister would devote himself to organizing a new administration. He had sent a message to the House of Commons setting forth his views, and had the House not been satisfied with that proposal it could have rejected it. But it did not. It sustained the new Government on three votes which could only be interpreted as giving assent to the procedure which Mr. Meighen had decided upon, said Mr. Stevens.

ADVICE GIVEN

With regard to the constitutionality of the formation of the temporary Government, Mr. Stevens said the law officers of the crown had been called into consultation and on their advice every requirement of the constitution had been carefully complied with.

It was an admittedly temporary arrangement to meet a most unusually critical situation, and the Government was prepared to do everything to facilitate the completion of the business of the House accepting the estimates of the previous Government with the only provision that they would be administered with the utmost economy.

Finally, Sir Henry Drayton rose to move the adjournment. He read a statement by former Premier Asquith of Great Britain in support of the contention that proceedings had been constitutional. The committee rose and reported progress, and the House adjourned.

TO PREVENT REBELLION

In subsequent debate, during last night, Mr. King said: "The present administration should inform the Governor-General of the real situation before it is too late. 'What are you going to do? Start a rebellion?' asked D. Sutherland, Conservative, North Oxford, Ontario. 'I want to prevent a rebellion,' replied Mr. King.

Mr. King reiterated that the present Cabinet should not be allowed to function until its various members had gone before their constituents for re-election.
EVENTS FORESEEN
"When I advised His Excellency," Mr. King continued, "that I did not believe there was anyone who would have before us, I had to leave His Excellency a free hand."
He stated that Mr. Meighen must have reported to the Governor-General that he could carry on. Now that he was unable to do so he should go back and admit that to His Excellency. He added that the present acting ministry should never have attempted the task it was trying to carry out.

"Their work will be over while this House is still here," said Mr. King. "Their work should never have begun."
NOT MINISTERS
At another point in his speech Mr. King said Sir Henry Drayton should tell the Prime Minister it was his duty to say to the Governor-General: "My ministers have said they are not Ministers of the Crown."
This should be brought to His Excellency's attention, and he would send for someone else to see the business of the country was concluded in a proper way.

ROBB'S RESOLUTION

The motion moved by Hon. J. A. Robb, who spoke briefly, declared the actions of the Acting Ministers of the Meighen Government were a violation of the privileges of the House of Commons on two grounds—first, that they had refused to sit in the House, and secondly, that if they did not hold their offices legally they had no right to control the business of legislation in the House.
Speaking on the resolution, Mr. King said that, in asking for dissolution, he had never contemplated that the business of the session would end there.

"I indicated clearly to His Excellency," Mr. King went on, "that I was desirous that my resignation should be accepted."

CHARGE UNFOUNDED

Hon. R. J. Manion, Acting Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, stated that in his speech of the previous day, Mr. King had uttered a tirade of abuse and made veiled attacks on the Governor-General.

Mr. King was immediately on his feet with a protest. There was a stormy outburst from members and Mr. King declared Dr. Manion's charges were unfounded and unparalleled.

SITUATION ABSURD

Hon. Lucien Cannon, Liberal, Dorchester, Que., declared the situation was absurd and the people of Canada would not stand for it.

The Liberal Party was not going to listen to the leader of any embryo government tell them to go home while the Tories organized for an election.

"This fight is only beginning," he declared.

A. W. Neill, Independent, Comox-Alberni, warned the Meighen Government against any form of co-operation with the Progressive members in light of the experience of the last Government. He said he would vote for the motion before the House.

Mr. Neill declared his vote would be to demonstrate the absolute need for a general election. It was the only possible solution.

ELECTION NEEDED

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, former Minister of Agriculture, said the new to carry out the programme of legislation before the House, he asked if the members wanted all this stopped by voting in the support of this resolution.

"The former Prime Minister says 'That is what we want,'" he said. "That is what he thinks of his work of the last six months. He wants to scrap it all."

Sir Henry added that there was no business, use or purpose in discussing the tariff question to-day. It had been discussed all through the session.

The present Government was doing its best to preserve the work parliament had accomplished so far. It was trying properly to conclude the work of the House, he said.

THREATS FUTILE

Hon. Charles A. Dunning said Sir Henry Drayton had admitted he was leading a pro tem shadow government, which had no right to be there.

Mr. Dunning ridiculed the threats that a passage of this resolution would mean the business of the House would stop immediately and asserted the resolution was in absolute accord with the views of the majority in the Commons.

Mr. Dunning warned the Government he would continue regardless of its threats to proclaim his position on the tariff question. He added the Government was not in power on this policy at all.

GOVERNMENT HAD NEVER BEEN PROPERLY BORN

THESE WOMEN

By MALCOLM DUART

(Copyrighted)

The names and situations in this story are fictitious.

The girl's wrath subsided for a moment into a little giggle.

"Well, he was criticizing me when he did that!" she said defensively. "He was intimating that I was doing something horrible."

Morton tapped her on the arm. "Don't be unjust, dear," he said, more seriously. "That young man really is in love with you, and it shocked him when he saw you with those half-dressed girls, and in the same sort of outfit yourself. Men want the women they love to be beyond criticism."

"But what was wrong with that?" she asked. "He must have some thing wrong with his mind if he sees any wickedness in bathing suits."

Morton considered, his eyes half closed. "I doubt if he thinks bathing suits are wrong. But a man just naturally doesn't want his own woman exposed to the gaze of the world."

"I'm not his womankind!" Her anger had mounted again. "I don't care what he thinks, or what he says. I'm not his womankind!"

"She slipped off the table and leaned against his shoulder. 'Daddy, it's all right with you if I go into a show, isn't it?'"

"I'm not going to object," he told her. "And that reminds me—you rather like Nona, don't you?"

The girl thought before she answered. "Yes, I like her. I do. I ought to hate her—she's in love with you, and wants to take you away from me, but—yes, I like her. I think she's a awfully kind-hearted."

Morton sank down in his chair, and thrust his hands into his pockets. "Nona is an excellent singer, and she used to be one of the best dancers on the stage. She still dances a little."

He hesitated. "She is rehearsing for an engagement now, but she might change her plans. Wouldn't you like to do a 'sister act' with her, as a team?"

Audrey clapped her hands. "That would be wonderful! She could tell me things I don't know—and I'd be with her every day and keep her away from you!"

Morton laughed. "I'll call her up," he said.

The lights all were burning in Nona's apartment. She had thrown a strip of rose-colored silk over the lamp shade, and had drawn a wide, glistening shawl of Spanish woollen over the couch. The room, shown in the filtered light of the central lamp.

Nona herself wore a boudoir robe of pink silk, with lacy billows covering her wrists. Her hair was carefully in order, and she had freshly employed the rouge-pot, lipstick and eyebrow pencil. Now she sat waiting, listening.

At last Morton came. With a little rush, she threw her arms around his neck.

"I was afraid you never were going to come to see me any more!" she said.

He disengaged her arms and threw his overcoat and hat on a chair. She picked them up, and smoothing the silky collar of the coat, carefully placed it in a basket in her closet.

She laid the hat on a shelf. Morton was in evening dress, and his silk tie looked fantastically out of place among the feminine headgear that cluttered the shelf alongside.

"Have you seen my new costumes?" she asked. Reaching farther into the closet, she withdrew a brief satin garment, consisting of short, silver-spangled trunks attached to a low-cut sleeveless bodice.

"I wear that in the first act," she said, "and then I change to this."

She drew forth another costume, containing "even less material."

"Aren't they pretty?" she asked, tossing them into Morton's lap. He had seated himself on her piano stool.

Holding them up in one hand, he examined them. "I fear you will take cold, Nona," he said. "No arms, no legs, no back, and not very loose front—are you going in for interpretative dancing?"

"Poof!" said Nona. "Those people who dance 'Spring Song' and things like that do it because they really don't know how to dance at all. Anybody can hop around in bare feet. I'm a dancer!"

She settled herself on the floor, at his feet, her knees drawn up and her arms around them.

"I'm glad you've come to see me," she went on. "I've been so blue! I thought you never wanted to see me any more."

He rolled the glistening garments into a ball, held them before him for inspection, and tossed them to the couch.

"Nona," he said, "how'd you like to quit that show you're in?"

"Quit it?" Her eyes were wondering. "Why?"

"Is there anybody who can conveniently take your place if you leave the cast now?"

Swinging her body to one side, she moved her clasped hands to his knee. "Harry! What do you mean?" She spoke eagerly. "Do you want me to—what is it, Harry?"

"Don't misunderstand, Nona," he said. "But you can do me a great favor, if you will. I trust you—even if you do put up little games on me, and raise the dickens sometimes."

Putting out his hand, he ruffled her hair.

"Nona," he continued, "you know that Audrey is bound and determined to go on the stage—in cabaret work. Will you quit your show and be her dancing partner, if I make it right with you?"

"Oh! There was deep disappointment in Nona's 'Oh.'"

She dropped her hands from his knee, and let them fall into her lap.

"Is that why you want me to quit the show?" Her voice had a weary note. "All right, I'll do anything for you, Harry—anything in the world! I'll find out—Oh, Harry!"

She rose to sudden animation. "I know! Wait a minute!"

She ran to the telephone, called another apartment in the building, and held a hurried conversation. As she hung up, she went to the door, and stood, waiting, smiling mischievously at Morton. Less than a minute later there came a knock, and Nona opened the door to a slender young woman.

It was the girl who had tried to blackmail Morton in that same apartment, a week or two before!

CHAPTER XXVI

"Come on in, you little fool!" called Nona and, reaching out the door, seized her visitor by the arm.

The girl, at sight of Morton, had started to retreat. Now, yielding to Nona's steady pull upon her arm, she entered, reluctantly, her eyes fixed in fright upon Morton.

He watched as Nona propelled her to a chair, shutting the door behind her.

With a touch of irony he asked: "Back from London so soon? The last I remember about you, I sent you the money to take you and that dancing partner of yours abroad."

"She's not a bad kid," interposed Nona. "I got her into that mess when she played the badger game—oh you. She never did anything like that before."

Morton looked understandingly at the newcomer's face. Her eyes were hollow, and her neck sank in tiny hollows behind her jaws. Blue veins showed in her temples.

"Been hungry lately, haven't you?" he asked. "Haven't paid the rent; haven't wanted you to move; that partner of yours borrowed your last piece of jewelry and pawned it and didn't give you any money?"

"Yes, I have," she sobbed. "How did you know?"

Nona patted the girl on the shoulder. "He knows things like that, without being told," she explained.

"I've seen you, and I've seen your dancing partner," Morton supplemented. "What did he do with that money I sent you?"

"Lost it all shooting craps," she said, dropping her head again. "But it wasn't his fault—they trimmed him."

Morton leaned back with his arm upon the piano keys, and waited for her to go on. She did so, after a moment. He just had hard luck. It's nice to me, though—he bought my dinner yesterday, and he had hardly any money himself."

"And," asked Morton, easily, "what did he borrow from you when he bought your dinner?"

"He borrowed my ring—the only one she had left, and he took it," snorted Nona, indignantly.

The girl began to cry. "Did you call me down here just to raze me?" she sobbed.

Repentantly Nona patted her shoulder again. "Don't cry, baby," she soothed. "Listen, do you want a job?"

"Yes," said the girl, dabbing at her nose with a handkerchief, wearily. "Of course I do."

"Well, maybe, we've got you one," Nona frowned and bobbed her head at Morton. "We can frame it so she can't take my place in the show, can't we?"

The girl looked up, profoundly interested. The tears still were streaking the powder on her cheeks, but she had ceased sobbing.

"I think that if you have to quit," said Morton, slowly, looking at Nona, "that I could speak to the manager about this young woman."

"So can I," said Nona. "Maybe we can slide her in right away. We'll try, honey," she added to the girl.

"Let me tell Joe," cried the young woman, and ran to the telephone. In a few moments she had the number she sought. "Oh, Joe! I'm up in Nona's room and she has a job all framed up for us! We can go to work right away!"

There was a bit more excited babble and she hung up. Her eyes were alight, and her form had lost its pathetic droop.

"Joe'll be so happy to get to work again," she said. "This long lay-off has been terrible for him!"

Morton glanced at Nona, who had turned her face away. Then he said, gently: "I'm afraid there isn't any place for him in the show. I only thought I might be able to place you in it."

The happy light fled from her eyes. "But I can't work if Joe don't work! We're partners! But—but—" She fingered her handkerchief, uncertainly—"maybe if I work, I can lend him money to get along on."

"She opened the door and started out. 'I'll think about it,' she said, as she went away."

"Poor little damned fool!" sighed Nona. "She's struck on that bum—and he'd ditch her in a minute! She gets a little money hoarding some times. One of these big companies has her on the list to entertain out-of-town men, and generally they tip her pretty well. Joe takes it all away from her."

"Nice chap, this Joe," observed Morton. "Charming character."

He felt in his pocket, and drew out a cheque book and pen.

"Take this and use it for her," he said, filling out one of the cheque blanks. "See that she gets some regular meals, and buy her a dress—she ought to look well when she sees your manager. But don't give her any of the money."

He handed the cheque to Nona, who stowed it in the top of her stocking. "And if Joe horns in on any of those meals," she said, "I'll feed him rat poison! I'd like to, at that."

She settled herself once more on the floor at Morton's feet.

"Let's talk about you and me," she said, dropping her flippant air. "Harry, would you rather I'd just drop out of your life, so you wouldn't have to see my any more?"

He did not answer, but looked at her, smiling a little.

"I know you don't love me," she went on. "You never say you love me. Why don't you, Harry?"

"I never tell any woman I love her, except Audrey," he answered.

She leaned her head against his knee. "But you don't love Audrey the way I mean. You love her all right, but I've watched you—your love her like you would some little child."

"Harry, even if you don't love me, can't you say you do?" She raised her eyes, anxiously. "It wouldn't hurt you to just say it."

He shook his head, and dropped his fingers on her dark hair. "Were you thinking of getting out of my life?" he asked.

"I thought, maybe, you wanted me to," she told him. "It must be an awful nuisance, having a woman crazy in love with you, and following you around all the time, when you don't give a snap for her!"

She breathed a deep sigh and lifted her head.

"But I'm just boring you. I wish I were a good woman, like Audrey is! You'd love me then. Wouldn't you, Harry?"

She arose, and stepping to his side, kissed him on the thick hair that brushed above his forehead. He looked up at her.

"You are a good woman, Nona," he said, soberly. "You're a sweet, affectionate, good-hearted girl—even if you do trot out a crap-shooting cabaret dancer once in a while to make it hot for me."

"Now I've got to run along."

He arose, but she clung to him. "You're always going away!" she wailed. "Can't you ever stay, just a little while, and talk to me?"

He chuckled. "You're not the only woman I have on my hands, you know, Nona," he said.

Her face fell. "Are you going to see some other girl?"

"Audrey," he explained. "She's making life miserable for that secretary of mine. I think she's waiting up for me, at home, and it's getting late. I sent Parrish to the theatre with her this evening, so she could see how that new Spanish dancer stages her act, but by this time I suppose she's sent him away with a sore ear. She slapped him the other day."

He laughed at the recollection.

Nona thrust her forehead through the loop of his coat button.

"Harry," she said, thoughtfully, "you want to watch out. She'll be marrying that fellow, yet."

"She could do a good deal worse," he said. "He's honest, and industrious, and intelligent. But the way she treats him is terrific."

International Fishing Commission Meets in Victoria

HALIBUT EXPERTS CONFER TO OUTLINE WORK

United States and Canadian Members of Commission Plan Programme of Investigation

Members of the International Halibut Commission, headed by John P. Babcock, British Columbia Deputy Commissioner of Fisheries, as chairman, met in executive session here yesterday to shape plans for the continuance of their investigation into the depletion of North Pacific halibut.

Henry O'Malley, United States Commissioner of Fisheries, and Miller Freeman, United States representative on the Commission, came over for yesterday's conference, the first held in Victoria.

"Only routine matters were considered at our conference," Mr. O'Malley said after the meeting. "The investigation being made by the commission is progressing satisfactorily. Mr. Thompson, the director of investigation, and his staff of scientific assistants, have the work well in hand. At present they are busy on our chartered halibut fishing vessel, the Scandia, in tagging halibut and collecting data as to migration, rate of growth, and so on."

Following the meeting the commissioners played golf with C. P. Todd at Oak Bay and left for Seattle last night.

Magnesia Best For Your Indigestion

Warns Against Doping Stomach With Artificial Digestants

Most people who suffer, either occasionally or chronically, from gas, sourness and indigestion, have no discontinued disagreeable diets, patent foods and the use of harmful drugs, stomach tonics, mediators and artificial digestants, and instead, following the advice so often given in these columns, take a teaspoonful of this little water after meals with the result that their stomach no longer troubles them, they are able to eat as they please and they enjoy much better health. Those who use Disburated Magnesia never read the approach of meal time because they know this wonderful anti-acid and food corrective, which can be obtained from any good drug store, will instantly neutralize the stomach acidity, sweeten the stomach, prevent food fermentation, and without the slightest pain or discomfort. Try this plan yourself, but be certain to get pure Disburated Magnesia especially prepared for stomach use. (Adv.)

POACHERS' HAVEN ON ALEUTIAN ISLES NOW DEAD CITY

Glamorous Days of Dutch Harbor, Once Intrigue Outpost, Now No More

Seward, Alaska, July 2.—Dutch Harbor, on one of the Aleutian Islands, once the military rendezvous of four nations and outpost of intrigue, like a dead city.

Before the fur seal treaty between the United States, England, Russia and Japan, Uncle Sam maintained five cutters and four gunboats there, while Great Britain had three, Japan several, and Russia several.

Daring poachers roamed the North Pacific and Bering Sea in search of the valued fur seal, and raids were common on the rookeries.

Probably the best known of those early fur pirates was Alce MacLean, Wolf Larsen of Jack London's "Sea Wolf." His last trip to the archipelago was aboard the schooner Comanche, a vessel masquerading under forged Mexican clearance papers.

One of his notorious exploits, yet remembered in the Far North, was when, closely pursued by three Government cutters, he threw overboard three barrels of seal skins weighted and attached to a buoy. Later he returned through the cutters, salvaged the skins and escaped.

In 1911 all the governments involved in the fur seal industry agreed to handle the killings. Guards were stationed at the rookeries and the seal migrations patrolled. Sealing at sea was prohibited. The treaty was drawn to run fifteen years, or until January 1, 1927. The United States was given complete control of the seal herds and empowered to act in both killing and marketing. Each Summer patrol duty is done by four armed cutters.

Dutch Harbor nestles among the volcanic mountainous islands slumbering and dreaming of a glamorous past. Each Summer ships from Seattle to Nome pass through Unalakleet within sight of the old village and once a month a mail boat from Kodiak stops, but the proud buildings that once boasted of being military headquarters with national colors on their flagpoles are crumbling into decay and ruin, for there is no hope of open sea or pelagic sealing any more.

Published for the first time, the official photographs and account of the Canadian Government Arctic Expedition of 1925 will interest readers of Rod and Gun. The story of the trip to the ice fields with its three full pages of photographs is only one of the interesting features of the July issue of Rod and Gun.

Just published, Bourmont to Maniwaki is a yarn of a canoe trip to the wilds of Quebec, well told by J. Jenkins, while William E. Dalton has some good wrinkles for trappers.

Bonnycastle Dale this month tells something of the Exquisitely Furred Destroyers, namely the mink and the weasel. Fishing Notes has an interesting line-up for the anglers this month and Fishing Regulations for the current year are included in the issue. Outdoor Talk and Guns and Ammunition with Kennel and J. W. Winson's article on the owl are of usual high standard.

Editorially in the June issue, Rod and Gun takes issue with Senator Belcourt's proposed bill to further restrict the sale of firearms. The magazine relates the contention that the bill is not in the interests of Canadian sportsmen and announces its intention of fighting the proposed legislation on that ground.

Rod and Gun is published monthly by W. J. Taylor Limited, Woodstock, Ontario.

MACAULAY TELLS HOW HE MADE ENORMOUS PROFITS IN BONDS AND STOCKS FOR THE SUN LIFE

Shrewd and Aggressive President of Assurance Company Gives Details of Big Investment Earnings for Account of His Company

Details of some of the enormous profits made by the Sun Life of Canada for its policyholders were revealed by President T. B. Macaulay, of Montreal, who is known as one of the shrewdest investors on the continent, in the final address before the Sun Life convention at the Empress Hotel to-day.

Last year the Sun made $2,500,000 profit on General Electric stock carried on the New York Stock Exchange.

Other large stock holdings of the Sun Life, he explained, include: Three million five hundred thousand in preferred stock of the General Motors Corporation, which yields a return of 6.10 per cent, has no bonds in front of it for prior claim, is backed by the equity in the common stock which is valued at $700,000,000, and which preferred stock, Mr. Macaulay predicted would soon go to its redemption price of $115 a share.

Sixty-five thousand seven hundred and fifty shares in the American Telegraph and Telephone Company, which is a stock of $25 per share, and which block makes the Sun Life the largest individual holder.

Stock in the Montreal Light and Power, which at present market prices, gives the Sun Life a profit of $5,000,000.

Big blocks in other stocks with the highest rating such as Brooklyn Edison, Consolidated Gas and Electric of New York City, Boston Edison, Detroit Edison, Commonwealth Electric of Chicago, which are all companies of outstanding character and public utilities of fixed earnings.

The Sun Life made $1,600,000 profit last year, Mr. Macaulay said. "Something that distinguishes us from all other companies is the character and profitability of our investments. During the war we devoted every dollar to investment in government bonds, and this patriotic move has had its own reward because all of these bonds have gone up in price now. We invested in long term bonds of the highest class on which we have made huge profits."

Life insurance companies can invest in preferred and common stocks of the highest class and which qualify for a certain standing in the eyes of the public. He compared the investment of the large sums of the Sun Life in high grade stocks and bonds with those of other life insurance companies who have their funds spread out in small amounts across the country in mortgages, many of which are giving much trouble with payment.

"We haven't one dollar of interest or dividends in arrears on any of our stocks," Mr. Macaulay went on.

Mr. Macaulay said that the Sun

Life has doubled in size every five and one-half years for the last fifty years and this rate was going to be kept up. He pointed out that to do this required an annual increase in business of under 15 per cent, but for the first six months of this year the Sun had increased its business at the rate of 24 per cent, which would mean a doubling in three years. In the next five years the company would have $400,000,000 of funds to invest. He told about the reception the officers of the company get in the highest financial circles in the United States and in Canada, how Cleveland, Ohio, greeted with pride the announcement of the Sun Life taking over the Cleveland Life Company, the largest of the north country. At Pittsburgh the Sun Life officers this year found their headquarters made ready for them in the office of the president of the super-powerful Union Trust Company, which is the company of the powerful Andrew Mellon, secretary of the United States Treasury.

Mr. Macaulay said that it was his policy to use the investments of the Sun Life to bring the company more into San Francisco and into Oregon. "We now have the Sun in the insurance in force," the president went on. "It won't be long before we have a billion of dollars of assets."

"The reason life insurance exists is because it fills one of the greatest needs of the country. When I look over the country what I see is a great aggregation of homes, but over every one of these homes is hanging a shadow, like the sword of Damocles, and as if falls here and there, so falls the hope of the world. The shield of the home in each case is life insurance. Guarding the homes in your districts is put in the hands of your life insurance men, that the widows and orphans of the future may not be plunged into despair. The business we in insurance are pushing is the most glorious business in the whole world, and we are not working for ourselves but for the widows and orphans of the future."

There were cheers from the convention when Mr. Macaulay announced that the Sun in the near future would increase its dividend rates on its policies, especially in regard to the earnings after the tenth year.

BOGUS $20 PASSED

The first of a sheet of spurious $20 bills said to have flooded Los Angeles' business section a few days ago was detected in Victoria this morning, taken to a stock clearing sale here. The bogus bill is printed on good paper, and is an excellent color copy. It might not have been detected save for the fact that its figures and letters appear "smudgy" and not clear as in the genuine note. The note purports to be on the Bank of Montreal, and is a close enough forgery to pass undetected in normal trading. The bill was handed in by someone who made a small purchase, and took his change in real money. The matter is now in the hands of Deputy Chief Harry J. O'Leary and the plain clothes department. Meanwhile merchants are warned to watch out for the reappearance of the bogus currency in this city.

NEXT BEER VOTE WILL BE HELD IN BOUNDARY RIDING

Grand Forks-Greenwood Files Large Petition Asking For Plebiscite

Some Electors Alleged Misrepresentation in Securing of Voters' Names

Following the receipt of a large petition in favor of such a vote, the Provincial Government is expected to arrange shortly for a beer plebiscite in Grand Forks-Greenwood constituency, the third beer ballot this Summer. The Grand Forks-Greenwood petition contains forty-two per cent, of the names on the 1925 voters' list for that constituency which is more than the Government requires before granting a plebiscite.

Following the petition came complaints from Midway, near Greenwood, alleging the misrepresentation had been used in the compilation of the petition. These are before the Government now.

ACTION PENDING

No action in regard to the anticipated beer vote in the boundary constituency will be taken until the return of His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Randolph Bruce from the North. Premier Oliver said to-day. He added that the Grand Forks-Greenwood petition would be carefully checked over by officials to make sure that all names contained on it were those of voters.

The vote in Grand Forks-Greenwood, it is anticipated, will take place after the New Westminster poll of July 21. Revelstoke already has voted on beer and rejected it for the second time and Cranbrook is preparing to ask for a ballot. Petitions in favor of plebiscites are in circulation in other constituencies, too, according to advices received here.

MUSKRATS DESERT GAME FARM, MOVE TO SAANICH ARM

Experts Amazed at Happy Animal Family is Found Twelve Miles From Home

The mystery of the missing muskrats, lost by the B.C. Game Conservation Board a year ago, has been solved. The animals, which were quartered near Mount Douglas, outside this city, have been found twelve miles distant near the Saanich Arm, where they appear to have taken up a permanent residence. M. B. Jackson, K.C., chairman of the board, announced with evident satisfaction to-day.

In its efforts to encourage fur farming the board is trying to make muskrats live away from water. Mr. Jackson explained. Dry fur farming is the object of this experiment and seems likely to be a success. A number of the animals selected for the experiment, however, refused to live under the conditions offered them by the game experts and disappeared from the farm where they had been placed. For months keepers searched for them but in vain.

Then the other day Mr. Jackson heard strange reports of muskrats living over near Saanich Arm a dozen miles away from the original colony. A careful search finally located them some wet ditches where they appear to be living contentedly. Their rapid increase encourages game experts to believe that they can be raised successfully under ordinary conditions without the use of marshy ground.

In the list of donations to the Solarium Fund published a few days ago the donation of $51.15 from the Langford Women's Institutes was inadvertently published as $11.5.

It has come to the knowledge of the directors of the Queen Alexandra Solarium that some unknown person or persons have been soliciting subscriptions for "The Sunshine Home." Wallace Bates, 1921
Canadian Champ, To Play In Tournament

Famous San Francisco
Player Will Play at Victoria
Courts Next Week

Eighty-one Entries in so Far
For Championships; Record
List Expected

Wallace Bates, of San Francisco, who won the Canadian singles title in 1921, will come to Victoria next week in quest of the Canadian championship once again. Bates notified Keith Verley, secretary of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club, this morning, that he would be along.

Bates' entry adds another ace to the American team that will be here. Phil Neer, also of California, Leon De Turenne of Seattle, and Wally Scott of Tacoma, are the big threats.

No word has been received as to whether or not Ray Casey will be here but his entry must be filed by to-night if he is to get in.

PLAYERS ARRIVING

Players from all over Canada, from Washington, Oregon and California have commenced to arrive in Victoria for the championships which will start on Monday morning on the twelve grass courts of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club. Entry lists close to-night and they promise to be the largest ever recorded for a tournament in Canada. Final preparations are being made by officials of the Victoria Lawn Tennis Club and not a single detail is being left unattended to. The draw will be made to-night and will immediately be printed in book form and sold to the public. This will enable the public to follow the different players in each round and know exactly who is playing.

At the present time there are over eighty-one entries for the men's singles; forty-eight teams for the men's doubles, over forty-six entries for ladies' singles and twenty-nine pairs for the ladies' doubles. In the mixed doubles there are at the present time sixty-one pairs. There are over sixty entries in junior and veterans' events.

BIG CROWDS

Tickets are going fast, and the present sale at the Remington Typewriter Company, View Street, indicates that a record crowd will be in attendance all week.

Famous Star Passes

BILLY FITZGERALD

St. Catharines, July 2.—William Fitzgerald, a noted lacrosse star of fifteen years ago, is dead here aged thirty-nine.

"Billy" Fitzgerald first played senior lacrosse with St. Catharines in 1907 and later with Toronto, Vancouver and Victoria.

Many Victorians will regret to learn of the passing of Billy. He was one of the greatest home players Canadian lacrosse produced. Near the end of his playing career he came here to handle a team for Con Jones. Four years ago Mr. Jones of Vancouver, tried to put over a new professional league in the city and Billy was one of the players who were to play for him. Billy signed a number of Eastern pros, and then got "Sugar" McDougall, Ernie Munro, Joe Mitchell and several other amateurs to turn professional.

Fails in Fast Finish on Burrard Inlet

Vancouver, July 2.—Frank Adams of the Vancouver Rowing Club last evening defeated A. I. Horstmeyer of San Francisco in a sculling race over a mile and a half course on Burrard Inlet, by two lengths and a half. The race was a special event held in connection with the rowing club's Dominion Day regatta.

KELOWNA BEATEN

A Vancouver four defeated Kelowna by two lengths in a one-mile lap race.

C. Hodie's crew beat the one stroked by R. Hulme in a race for 140-pound fours. Finlayson's four beat the one stroked by Moran. E. Sped won the special singles event and H. Fletcher and S. Angus won the doubles race.

SOFT-BALL

The Soft Ball League fixtures for to-night are: Y.M.C.A. vs. Lemon Grove at Beacon Hill; Sons of England vs. Norman School at Normal School; Plimley & Ritchie vs. Wilson Bros at Central Park; Tilleuums a bye.

A special meeting of the Victoria and District Soft Ball League will be held in the Y.M.C.A. at 7 o'clock to-night for the teams in the "A" section. As the business is of an important nature all clubs are requested to be represented.

Cincinnati Manager
Spoke Too Soon And
His Reds Fall Down

Reds Drop Two Games After Their Boss Predicted They Would Not Crack

Pittsburgh Ends Long Losing
Streak; Senators and Yanks
Even Stephen

New York, July 2.—Jack Hendrick's confidence in his Cincinnati Reds may have been shaken somewhat by later developments. Hendrick in a statement yesterday expressed his belief that the club would carry through to a pennant instead of collapsing as many critics have predicted. But the Reds have lost twice in two days and now lead the National League by a margin of 3 1/2 games over the Cardinals.

Wilson was the man who accomplished Cincinnati's downfall yesterday with a homer in the eleventh. He has done some long hitting for the Chicago Cubs this year.

Pittsburgh brought to an end a losing streak of eight games. Five runs in the seventh put the Pirates ahead and they eventually beat the Cardinals.

The Giants defeated Brooklyn. A seventh-inning rally gave the Boston Braves a 3 to 1 victory over the Phillies.

Washington and New York divided a double-header in the American League. The Yankees won the first game.

The Athletics fell before the Red Sox nine pitchers working in a three-hour struggle.

Two runs in the ninth brought the St. Louis Browns from behind to defeat the White Sox.

Yankees restored a homer, two triples and a double for Detroit, but his team was beaten by a late Cardinal rally.

COAST LEAGUE

Vancouver, July 2.—Vancouver baseball fans showed their appreciation of professional baseball in no uncertain manner yesterday when they packed the stands and bleachers at Athletic Park and overflowed on all sides of the field to see the Coast League game in which Seattle nosed out the San Francisco Mission 10-9 in a free hitting game.

Mission opened the scoring in the first when they chased over three runs, but this lead was not long maintained for the Indians tallied two in the second and four in the third. Mission added five in the fifth, but Seattle came right back with three in the sixth to lead at 9-8. Mission put one over to tie the count in the seventh, but the Indians scored the winning run in the eighth. Score: Mission 10, Seattle 9.

TOO MANY ERRORS

Portland, July 2.—Hollywood broke a 3 to 3 tie with Portland in the tenth inning. A flock of errors with a boot by Manager Johnson himself opened the way for a four-run victory over the Seals to 4-3.

Berry homing in the Portland half. Score: Hollywood 4, Portland 3.

Batteries—Shellenbach and Peters; Mangum and Berry. Ten innings.

MAILS RETURNS
San Francisco, July 2.—Walter Mails made an impressive return to Coast League baseball yesterday when he pitched the Seals to a 4-3 victory over Oakland, the first game to be taken by the San Francisco club this week. The big left-hander, acquired a few days ago from the St. Louis Cardinals, twirled masterful

Splendid Work By Some Athletes At
B.C. Track Meeting

Warren and McDiarmid, Vancouver, Dirom, Duncan and Nicholls, Victoria, Best

Young Athletes Have Promising Future; Other Competitors do Well

Harry Warren and Archie McDiarmid, of Vancouver; Arthur Dirom, of Duncan, and Jack Nicholls, of Victoria, were the outstanding performers at the B.C. track and field championships held at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday afternoon. This quartette was very much to the front. McDiarmid, who is a veteran in the weight throwing competitions, has the field at his feet while the other boys showed surprising form on the track.

Warren exhibited a great running style and easily captured the three senior dashes. He has a fine stride, excellent judgment and a splendid turn of speed. He finished well in front in the century, the furlong and two-furlong dashes, and gives promise of becoming one of the leading sprinters in the west. He was clocked over the hundred in 10 seconds flat, which is fine time on a new track.

HAS GREAT PROSPECTS

Dirom looks like an athlete who will bring fame to Vancouver Island. He can do nearly everything. He ran the hundred in better than 11 seconds, and took the junior high jump with a leap of 4 feet 3 inches, which was as good as that made by Andrian of Vancouver in the senior event. In the pole vault Dirom was second with a vault of 8 feet 6 inches. Dirom was second in the junior broad jump with a leap of 18 feet 11 inches, which was only one inch behind that made by Nicholls. Under careful coaching Dirom should develop into an outstanding athlete.

Jack Nicholls, who won the High School championship this year, won the junior quarter mile in fine style and captured the broad jump as well. He was a member of the victorious Victoria Y.M.C.A. team in the junior relay race.

Burritt of Vancouver was good enough for both the half-mile and mile events, which were the longest on the program.

McDiarmid outclassed his field in the weight events, winning the 16-pound hammer, discus throw, throwing 56-pound hammer and putting 16-pound shot.

OTHERS DO WELL

Several other Victoria athletes, including B. Watson and Jack Fournace, did well in the sprints. H. M. Turner was only three inches short of McDiarmid in the 56-pound weight toss.

This was the first time the B.C. meet has been held here since before the war, and a score of Canada looked for a big attendance. They were disappointed as the crowd did not reach 500.

The results were as follows:
Putting 16-pound shot—McDiarmid, Vancouver; 2, Watson, Vancouver; 3, Aldrian, Vancouver. Distance 34 1/2 feet.

Running high jump, junior—1, Dirom, Duncan; 2, Brokovski, Victoria; 3, Turner, Turnbull, Victoria. Height 5 1/2 feet.

100-yard dash, senior—1, Warren, Vancouver; 2, Brokovski, Victoria; 3, Turner, Turnbull, Victoria. Time 10 seconds.

100 yards dash, junior—1, Dirom, Duncan; 2, Brokovski, Vancouver; 3, Watson, Victoria. Time 10 4-5 seconds.

Throwing 16-pound hammer—1, McDiarmid, Vancouver; 2, Turner, Victoria; 3, Gould, Victoria. Distance 148 1/2 feet.

Discus throw—1, McDiarmid, Vancouver; 2, Watson, Vancouver. Distance 103 1/2 feet.

Running 160-yard dash, senior—1, Andrian, Vancouver; 2, Cathcart, Vancouver; 3, Connorton, Victoria. Height 6 3/4 feet.

220 yards dash, senior—1, Warren, Vancouver; 2, Fournace, Victoria; 3, Turner, Turnbull, Victoria. Time 23 2-5 seconds.

440 yards dash, junior—1, Nicholls, Victoria; 2, Dunn, Victoria; 3, Howden, Vancouver. Time 58 3-5 seconds.

One mile run—1, Burritt, Vancouver; 2, Stinson, Vancouver; 3, Jones, Victoria. Time 5 minutes 4 4-5 seconds.

Running broad jump, junior—1, Nicholls, Victoria; 2, Dirom, Duncan; 3, Brokovski, Vancouver. Distance 19 feet.

Discus throw—1, McDiarmid, Vancouver; 2, Watson, Vancouver. Distance 103 1/2 feet.

Running 160-yard dash, senior—1, Andrian, Vancouver; 2, Cathcart, Vancouver; 3, Connorton, Victoria. Height 6 3/4 feet.

SONS MEET EAGLES
IN SENIOR BASEBALL
TUSSLE TONIGHT

In the senior Amateur Baseball League to-night the Sons of Canada and the Eagles will meet and it is expected a good picture will result from the meeting. The Eagles are tailenders in the league standings but they have pulled several surprises lately. The Travelers also are going well.

The game will be called at 8.30 o'clock sharp, when Bob Whyte will act as base umpire and Albie McGregor will call the balls and strikes.

Sons' Dying Rally

Edmunds of Chemainus Nips
Locals' Rally; Won Good
Game by One Run

A lone run scored in the eighth inning gave Chemainus a 5-4 victory over the Sons of Canada in the exhibition baseball game played at the Royal Athletic Park yesterday. The game was one of the keenest played at the park this season, with both clubs dishing up a snappy brand of ball.

"Fat" Edmunds, on the mound for the Up-Islanders, pitched airtight ball, and it was only through his fine work in the pinches that Chemainus came through with a win. Ray Farnitt twirled for the Sons and, except for the fourth inning, when Chemainus chalked up four runs, he had the Up-Islanders slugging under control.

The Sons jumped into a two-run lead in the first inning. In the third the Natives added another counter to their credit when Bill More lifted one of Edmunds' fast curves over the centre field boards.

In the fourth inning Chemainus went on a regular batting spree and gained a one-run lead by scoring four runners.

For the next two innings three up and three away was the order, but in their half of the seventh the Sons tied up the score when they struck out three men across the plate on a couple of hits.

Chemainus advanced into the lead again in the eighth by bringing home one run. The Sons made a great attempt to tie up the score in their half of the inning, but Edmunds tightened the screws and three men in a row with two men on bases.

Visitors Score at Will; Only Pressed Few Minutes in Second Half

Saskatoon, July 2.—The touring English football team defeated the Saskatoon representatives eleven here last night by a score of 7 to 0.

Completely masters of the situation most of the time, the visitors were not hard pressed except for a few minutes after the start of the second half.

They scored two goals within three minutes of the start. Rawlings and Smith being the scorers. Rawlings added a third goal half way through the period and Smith got another with a shot just before time.

After being pressed a bit at the start of the second half, Harris scored for the tourists and this was followed by two more goals from Rawlings.

England—Gale; Clifford and Barcus; Foxhall, Waugh and Harkas; Harris, Cross, Rawlings, Smith and Tunstall.

Saskatoon—Darby; Stewart and Lawson; Fraser, Garrett and Sheldon; McTavie, Rivett, Pinchbeck, Clark and Stone.

TORIES WILL SEEK TO SMASH OLIVER GOVERNMENT SOON

Pooley Forsees End of Provincial Administration After Next Session of House

Saanich Conservatives Enjoy Big Picnic With Programme of Athletic Sports

With "good hopes of success," the Conservative Opposition will launch a supreme attempt to smash the Oliver Government at the next session of the Legislature, R. H. Pooley, Opposition Leader, indicated in a speech before Saanich Conservatives at their Brentwood picnic yesterday.

"While we had strenuous time last session it will be more strenuous still at the next one, and I have the best hopes of seeing the end of the Oliver Government within the year," Mr. Pooley declared.

Mr. Pooley intimated that Conservative organizations all over the Province would be kept in smooth working order from now on in preparation for a Federal election, certain to take place in the Fall.

"Keep your association well organized, for we shall need you," he said. "There certainly will be a Federal election this Fall."

ATTACKS KING

Mr. Pooley charged that the Oliver Government had secured office by the manipulation of the absentee vote and declared that in the same way the Mackenzie King Government had retained office by manipulating the poll in the Peace River constituency. The exit of the King Government at Ottawa, he asserted, was one of the most disgraceful incidents in the history of the country. Under British practice, he said, no parliamentarian was allowed to bring the name of the King or his representative into debate. Mr. King, however, had endeavored to make Baron Byng appear partisan and favorable to one party as opposed to another in refusing dissolution to the Liberal Government, Mr. Pooley charged.

"Mr. King is the last man in Canada who should dare to point his finger at Baron Byng," he added. "When you get a man in a corner or a dog in a manger then you find out just what he is. That is what happened in the case of Mr. King."

ANSWERS TIMES

Mr. Pooley answered in some detail an editorial in The Times this week regarding Baron Byng's action in refusing dissolution of Parliament to Mr. King. The Times, he recalled, had drawn a parallel between the situation in Canada and the situation in Great Britain, when the King had granted dissolution to the Ramsay MacDonald Government after it had lost control of the House of Commons. This parallel, said the Conservative leader, was absolutely unfair, as the conditions here and in Britain were utterly different. In Britain, he said, the Opposition Party, headed by Mr. Baldwin, had been in office and had been defeated in the Commons. Its strength had been previously tested in the country. The Labor Government, however, Mr. Pooley said, had been returned to Parliament at the head of a minority party. He had had his chance to appeal to the electors and done so. Defeated in this appeal, he had no right to expect a dissolution.

In Canada, however, the situation had been quite different, Mr. Pooley said. Mr. King had been to the country and returned to Parliament at the head of a minority party. He had had his chance to appeal to the electors and done so. Defeated in this appeal, he had no right to expect a dissolution.

PARALLEL HERE

Mr. Pooley asked The Times to re-open the parallel files to refute its own argument. He referred to the action of Lieutenant-Governor McInnes in dismissing the J. H. Turner Government and putting the late Joseph Martin in office for political purposes. If The Times would refer to its files of that date, Mr. Pooley said, it would see the inconsistency of its present stand.

T. G. Coventry, M.P.P. for Saanich, in a brief speech, thanked the people of the province for their support and cooperation.

Conservatives all over Canada are happy now, Col. Cyrus Peck, Y.C. M.P.P. for the Islands remarked. He expected them to wear happy smiles for the next fifteen years at least.

C. F. Davis, M.P.P. for Cowichan, Newcastle, expressed the gathering that the Oliver Government was just about at its last gasp and had little chance of winning the next election. He called the provincial administration a remnant of decadent Liberalism in Canada.

CONSTITUTION ATTACKED

Mr. Mackenzie King tried to strike a blow at the constitution of Canada when he criticized Baron Byng for refusing his dissolution. H. Despard Twigg, Conservative M.P.P. for Victoria, asserted. He said the King Government had fondered with complete discredit to itself. Mr. Twigg stressed the importance of co-operation between Saanich and Victoria in building up the southern end of Vancouver Island.

Lindley Crease, K.C., president of the Victoria Conservative Association, spoke briefly, as did Councillor William Stubbs, president of the Saanich Association. At the conclusion of the speeches three cheers were given for C. H. Twigg, Federal member for Nanaimo, including Saanich, Mr. Pooley and Mr. Coventry.

POOLEY'S WINNER

The picnic was voted a splendid success. Held in the beautiful gardens of the Anchorage, Brentwood, it was attended by some 800 people. The feature of the affair was the extraordinary success of Mr. Pooley in winning all kinds of prizes. He returned home richer by one coconut, one water-color painting, one ham and a large doll. Those in charge of the arrangements were: Mrs. F. Osborne (convener), Mrs. Willoughby, Mrs. Toma, Mrs. Rice, Mrs. McQueen and Mrs. Sparks. The sports committee consisted of: Mr. P. Stubbs, Mr. W. O. Wallace, Hon. T. G. Coventry, M.P.P.; Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Fisher. The handicapper starter was Mr. Lynn. The judges included: Mr. Nesbitt, Mr. F. Osborne, Mr. Rice, Capt. McQueen and Mr. Burns.

The prizes, which were a very valuable collection, were won as follows:

COUNCIL FEARS FOR PEDESTRIAN TRAFFIC IN CITY

Arterial Highways, Compulsory Stops and Other Devices Originated

Use of Streets as Public Garage Must Cease Decides Civic Authorities

At the close of a special council session on Wednesday afternoon the City Council went over the street traffic regulation by-law amendments for the third time. The council was assisted by a full attendance of the city police commission. Four new clauses were read into the by-law.

These, in brief, provide for a declaration of arterial highways in regard to Fort Street, from Blanshard east to the city limits, including the Dandanelles, Pandora Street, from junction with Fort to city limits, and portions of Douglas, Government and other main roads in the city. The declaration ensures that traffic entering the highways will halt before swinging into the traffic stream of the main road, in accordance with Provincial regulations.

Though its legal advisers were doubtful as to the power of the corporation to regulate pedestrians to that extent, the council provided that pedestrians when walking on a city road on which there are no sidewalks shall walk on the left of the road to face approaching traffic. The pedestrian must, further, step off the road when a vehicle approaches from his front. The ordinance, which was declared by Alderman Clearhue to be worthless as beyond the powers of the council, is addressed mainly to the safety of pedestrians on George Road.

The use of city streets as an all-night public garage will be eliminated by an ordinance which provides that no parking will be allowed on city streets between midnight and 5 a.m. This applies to cars left continuously on the streets between those hours, and not to dance patrons, etc., it was stated.

The council frowned on the practice of demonstrating cars at the curb, and will put an end to street trading in this respect, it was decided.

To stop pedestrian accidents in relation to cars emerging from buildings, etc., the council considered a clause making it compulsory on the vehicle to stop before driving across the sidewalk line. Over 215 persons were injured on city streets last year, many in this way, stated Commissioner Walter E. Stenland.

The by-law deals with bicycles and their riders, and will make it an offense to carry anyone on the handlebars, or on non-permanent saddles in front or in the rear of the rider.

After other and minor changes the combined bodies expressed themselves satisfied with the draft of the by-law as it now stands.

AUCTION SALE IS DEFINITELY AGREED UPON

At an uncontested vote on Wednesday afternoon the City Council plied itself to the second auction sale of city lands. The opening sale will be held by Charles S. Austin, realty auctioneer, at 2.30 p.m., July 29.

Alderman E. S. Woodward absent himself from the session, having previously recorded his opinion on the question.

The council decided to go through with the list of 175 properties drawn up by the lands committee for sale, with the exception of four lots at the southwest portion of Hollywood Crescent, which will be retained to preserve public access to a bathing beach at that point.

In a statement prepared to show his stand on the sale plan, Alderman H. Cuthbert Holmes said in part: "Victoria is suffering from a surfeit of undigested lands. It is a horrible disease and we have to take some nasty medicine to cure it, but it seems to me the sooner we take the remedy the better." The statement continued with a survey of the vacant land situation, which the alderman said was bearing taxes beyond its earning capacity.

The terms of the auction sale will be the same as last year. The council left it to Mayor J. C. Pendray to see if the auctioneer would consent to waive the ten dollar fee in regard to properties which sell for sums in the neighborhood of $100.

While waiting for a quorum for the passage of the tax sale by-law, the council granted a thirty-day extension of time to the Franco-Canadian Company to fulfil conditions in regard to a trade of block of lots at Mason and Opal Streets in exchange for city property. Alfred Carmichael, present on behalf of the company, thanked the council for the concession.
